HALLOWEEN 2018

Hello hello, boys and ghouls.
I'm Benjamin Frightener and on this Halloween night I'm here to share with you a spooky tale!
A tragedy most shocking!
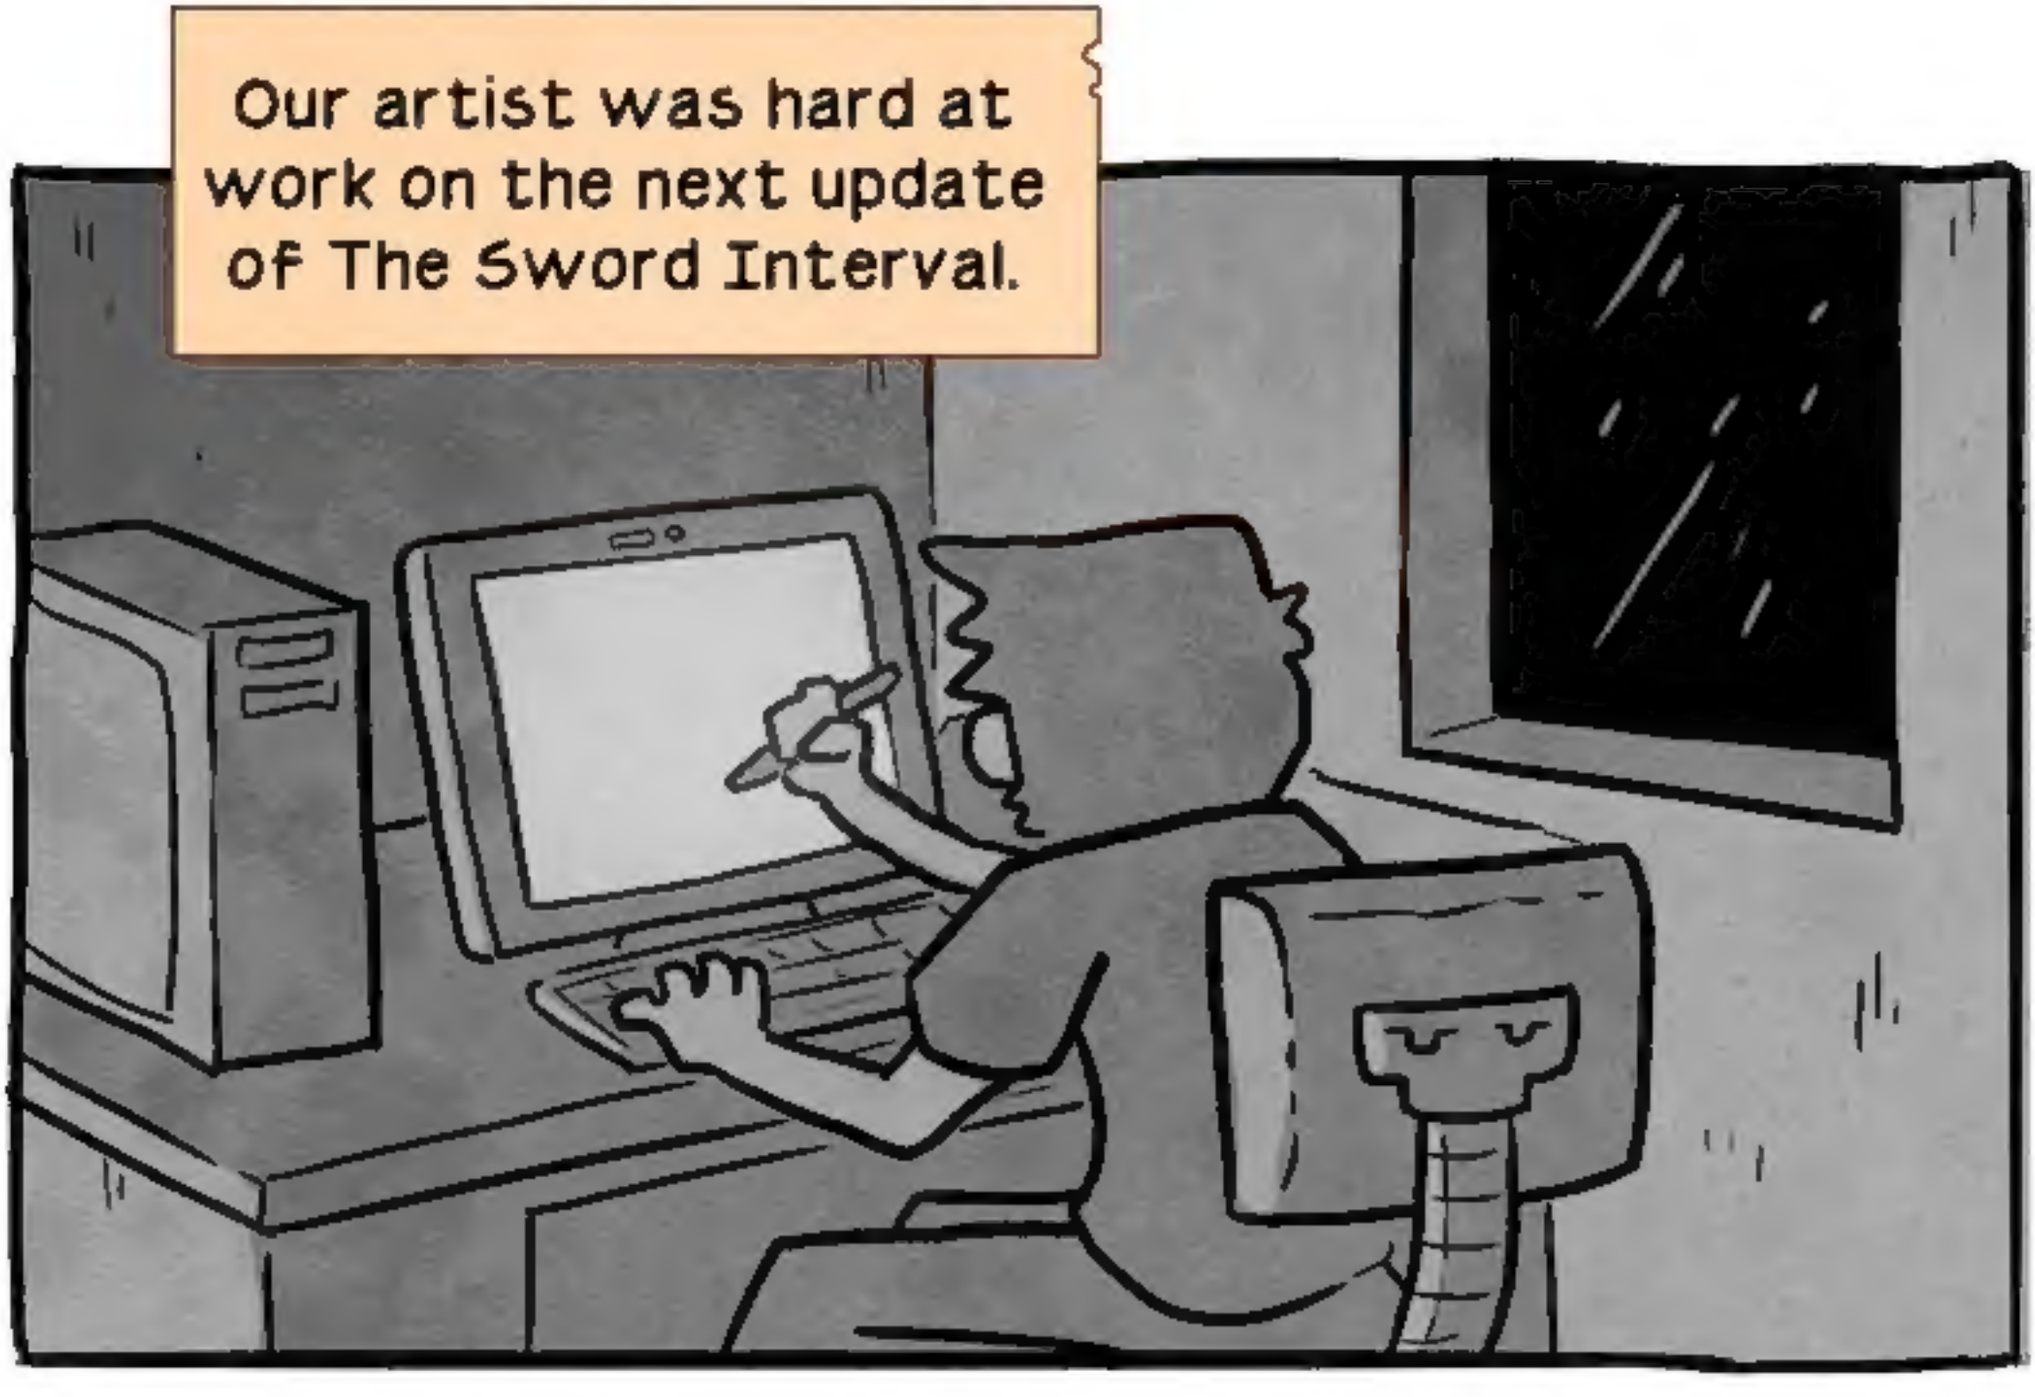
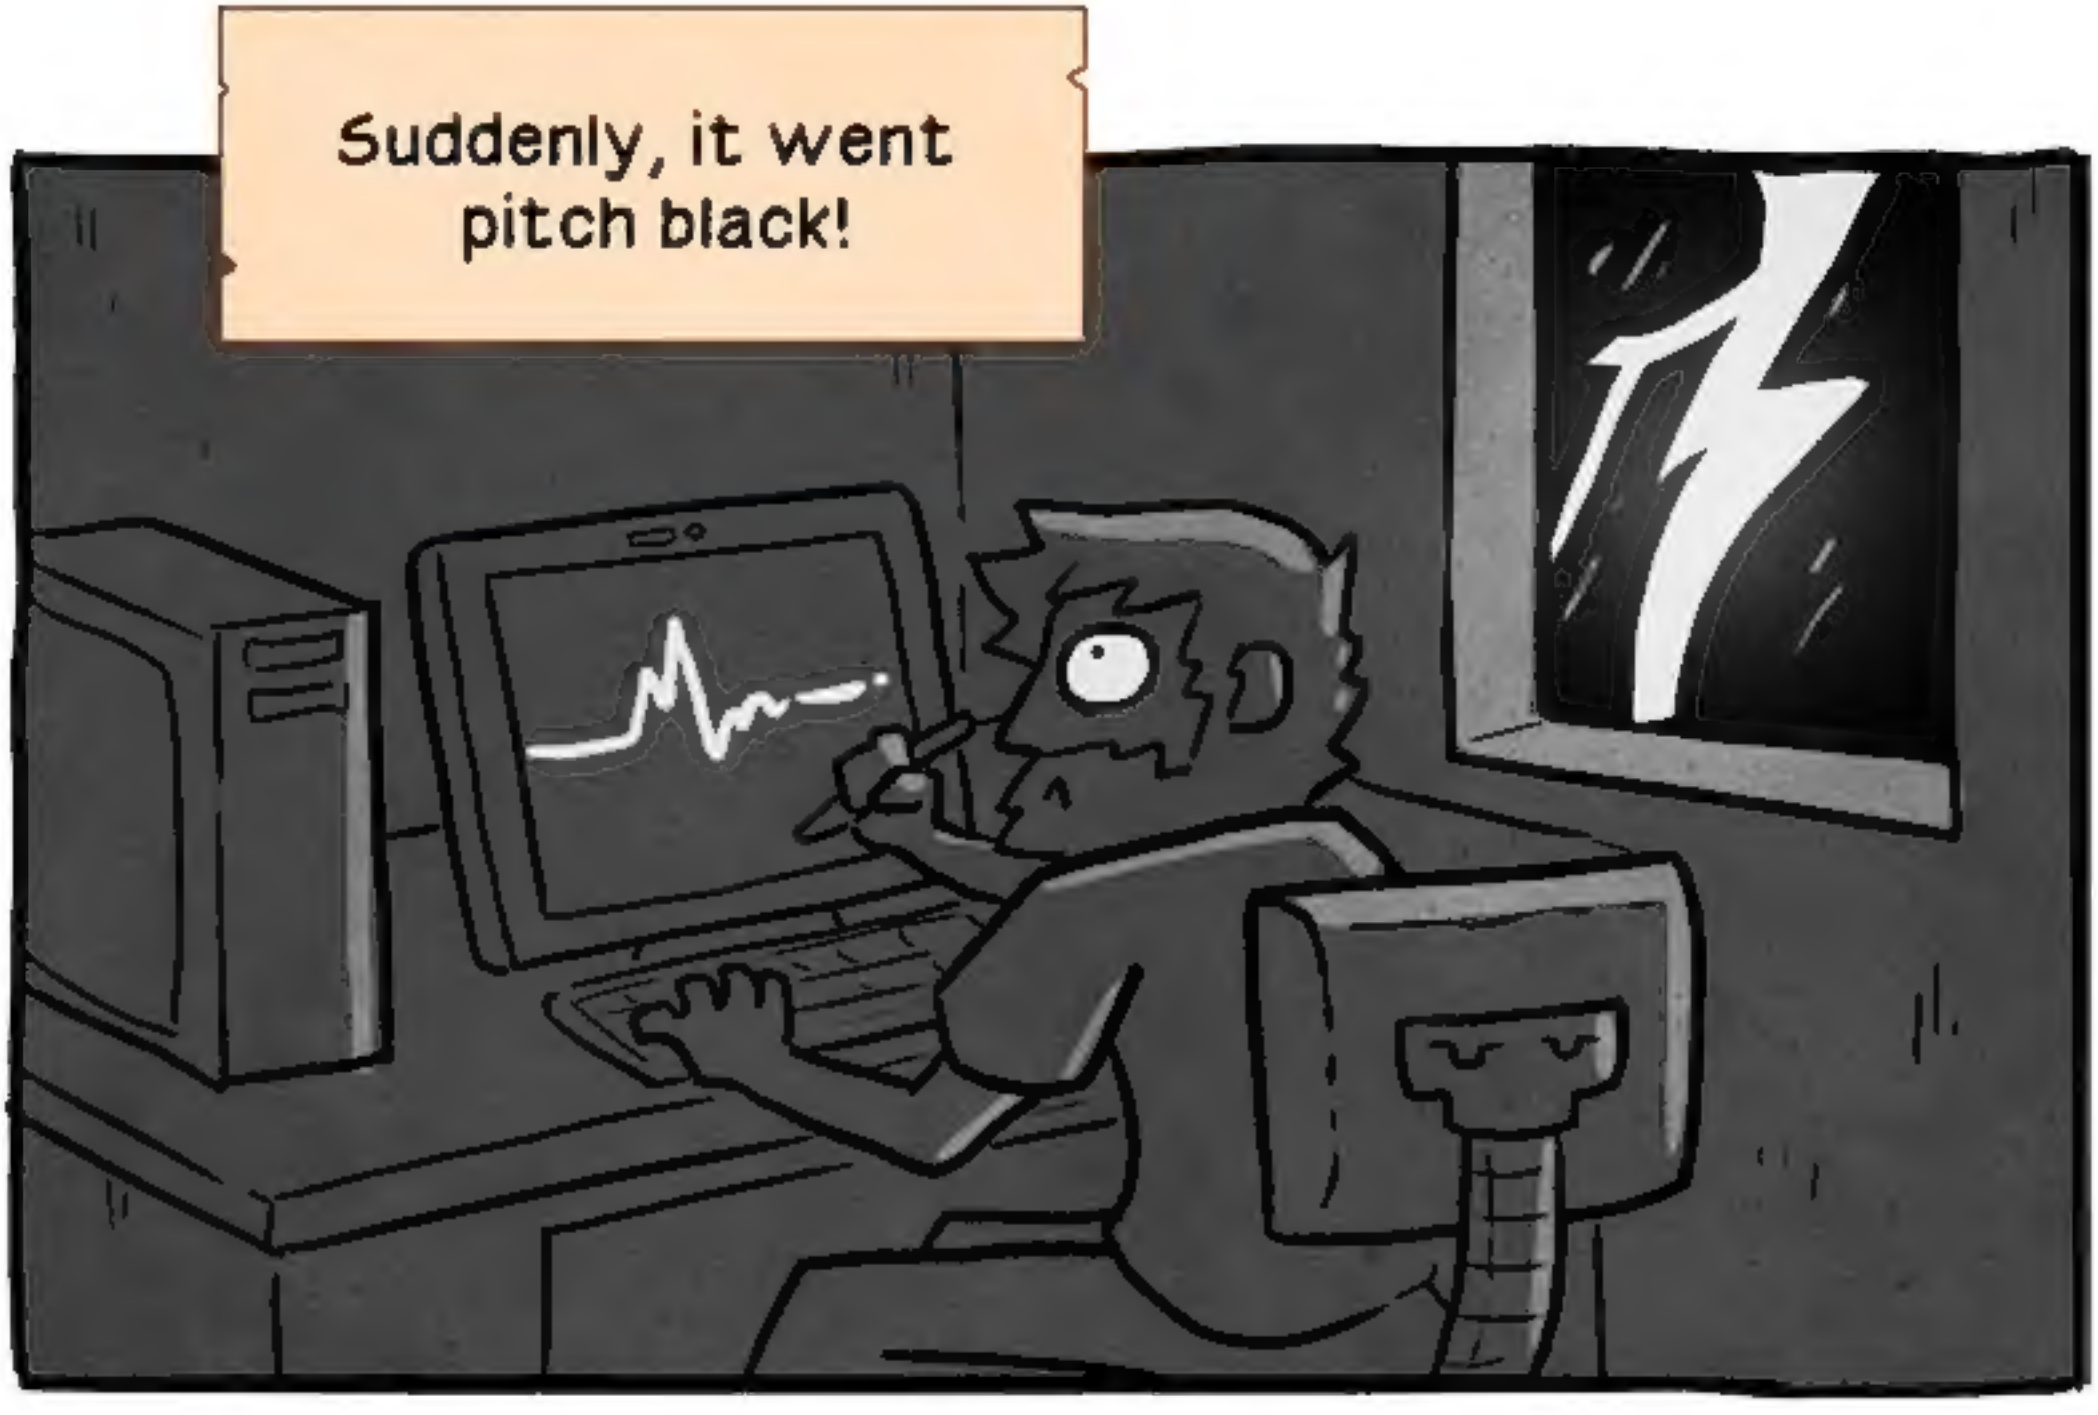
RIP

It was a dark and stormy night...



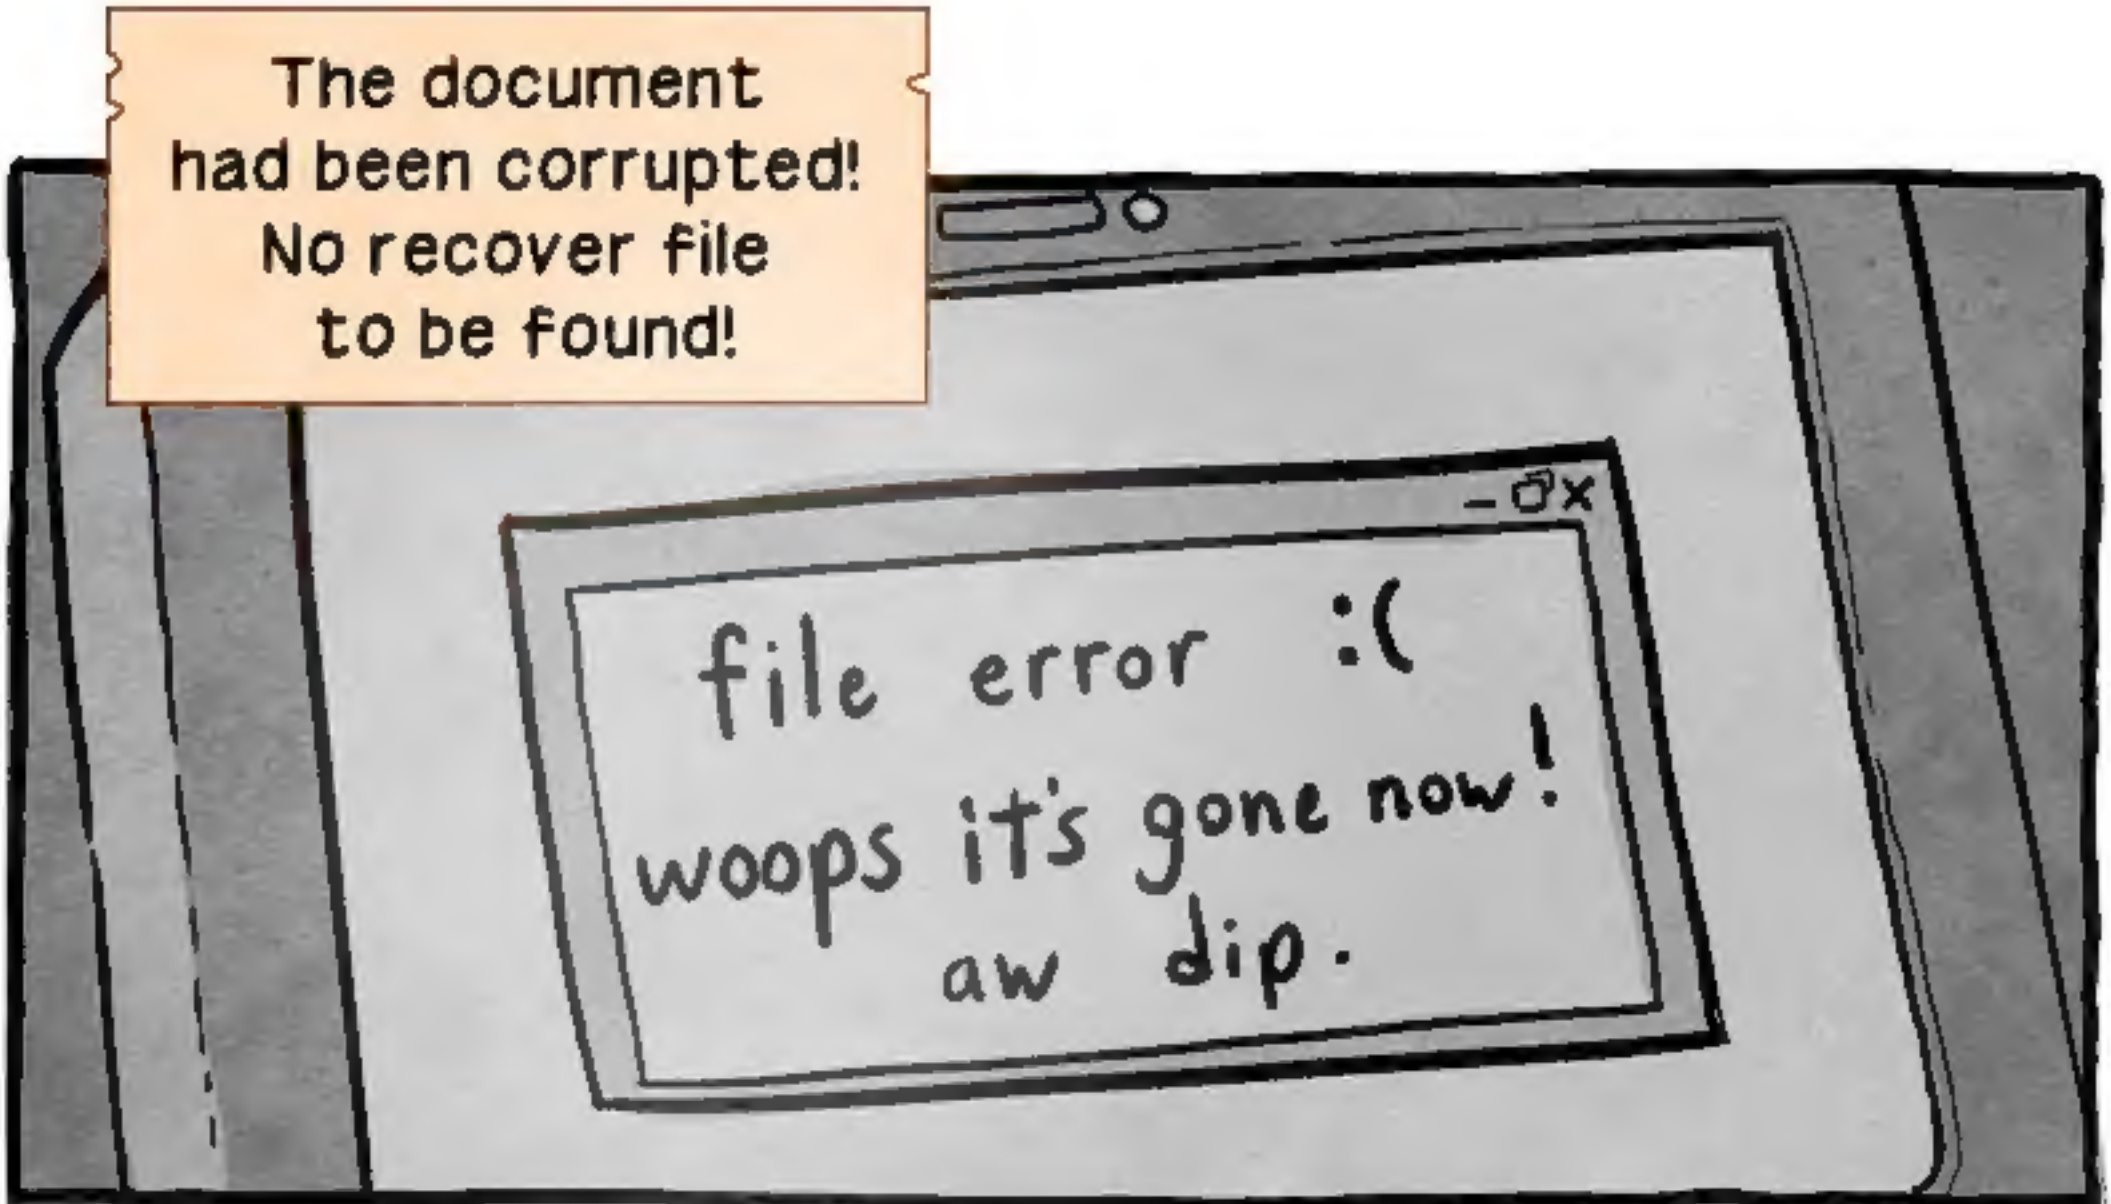
Our artist was hard at work on the next update of The Sword Interval.



Suddenly, it went pitch black!

For you see, a tree branch had fallen on the power lines!

When at last power was restored, and light crept back into the office, it revealed the most ghastly sight.



The document had been corrupted! No recover file to be found!
file error :(
woops it's gone now!
aw dip.

AAAAAA!!!

So yeah. A few power outages in a row really messed with this episode release date. I've got some good work-arounds now to avoid losing files over this in the future, but the damage is done this time. It's alright. Some time to catch up [maybe even get ahead??] isn't so bad a thing.

We'll be back next week.
In the meantime, I wish you all a fun Halloween.